Seabird and turtle nesting

To protect nesting seabirds and turtles, entry to this island—Milman Islet, Denham Group National Park (see map)—is prohibited without a permit or written approval.

Nesting birds are easily alarmed and will leave their nests if disturbed. Eggs and chicks are then vulnerable to heat, cold and predators and can die quickly.

Nesting turtles are easily disturbed by light, noises and movement. When disturbed they will return to the water without laying their eggs.
